

We innovate each moment to help build safer cities and thriving businesses

Governments build safer cities

We provide the situational awareness first responders need when a moment brings catastrophe. In order to improve efficiency and accelerate decision making, you need devices that work together seamlessly and share information effortlessly. That's why we're building future-ready devices with innovative capabilities such as fast proximity pairing using mission-critical Bluetooth[™] technology and applications that streamline information between all users and their various devices.

Companies build stronger businesses

Manufacturers can better manage production costs and more efficiently move goods to their customers. Our solutions are helping keep miners and oil rig workers safe, while maximizing efficiencies across the operations. They are enabling hotels and retailers to offer guests memorable experiences and helping businesses move goods and people as efficiently as possible.
